Home-Mixed Cough Syrup Gives Quick Relief

Saves You Big Dollars. And It's So Easy! No Cooking.

Here's an old home mixture your parents probably used. But, once tried, you'll always use it, because it gives such quick, pleasing relief for coughs due to colds.

And it's so easily mixed. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water in a glass bowl. Add 1/2 cup of honey.

Now, add 1/2 cup of lemon juice and 1/2 cup of glycerine. Stir well. This makes a full pint of splendid cough medicine, and you use about four times as much as you would a store-bought syrup, and lasts a long time.

You can feel this simple home mixture take right hold of a cough, loosen the phlegm, soothe the throat, and helps clear the air passages. When the soreness makes breathing hard, and lets you get restless at night, it's a relief.

Coast Mining Industry Seen Employing More

Special to The Star

LOS ANGELES—Chances for increased employment in California's mining industry were seen recently in a 400-page report compiled by the state division of mines.

At the close of 1943, says the report, California's mineral deposits had yielded $11,189,489,653 since recording began in 1887.

Los Angeles county has been the leader in production, with an output of over $2,800,000,000. While over 60 per cent of California's mineral production in recent years has been petroleum and natural gas, employment in mining and quarry operations in 1943 was 71,682.

Since 1930, it is estimated, enough has been produced to ensure for 50 to 100 years of intensive mining.

POLICE GET CLUE IN MISSING CHILD CASE

By The Associated Press
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—San Francisco police alerted all California points early today to be on the lookout for two men who may have missing Dickie Sudeen 3, with them in a late model sedan.

San Francisco authorities said, however, they are inclined to discount the value of the search.

Inspectors said several discrepancies have been found in the account of the incident.

Inspector Joseph Donegan broadcast the alarm after Mrs. Mildred Beer of No. 3, Pinto avenue, Park Mueled, reported a three or four-year-old boy resembling the turn Sudeen child, had come to her door just before midnight, and was seized some time later by two men who forced their way into her home and knocked her down.

She told Donegan she heard a noise at her door and found the blue-suited youngster outside alone. She took him inside, fed him some milk and about an hour afterward called the police.

Three radio squad cars were dispatched immediately to Mrs. Beer's home in a new, suburban residential district in southwest San Francisco.

Five minutes after Donegan received the woman's call, he phoned her back to see if the police car had arrived. During that interval Mrs. Beer said two men came to the door, claimed they were policemen and pushed their way inside. One struck her on the forehead, knocked her down and held her until the other picked up the boy and carried him to a car parked outside. His companion joined him and the pair raced away with the lad.

The turn Sudeen boy, scions of a wealthy San Francisco bay area mining family, has been missing since Nov. 1 when he disappeared from the yard of his parents' home at Goodyear Bar, a mining community in the high Sierras. An intensive search in that mountainous country was cancelled Tuesday night after no trace of the boy had been found.

STRIKE HITS LOUISVILLE

Management officials said Louisville's multimillion-dollar reconstruction program faced complete stoppage because of two labor disputes keeping 800 workers from their jobs.

Operation of from 45 to 50 bidders supply and construction firms were virtually halted when more than 250 AFL truck drivers struck in a wage dispute.

The other Louisville strike involved 500 CIO United Rubber Workers at the B. F. Goodrich Co. plant.

The president of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co., Stamford, Conn., was barred from entering his office because he had no pass from the AFL machinists to cross their picket line.

The strike at the lock factory started yesterday when 2,000 union members demanded a closed shop and check-off.

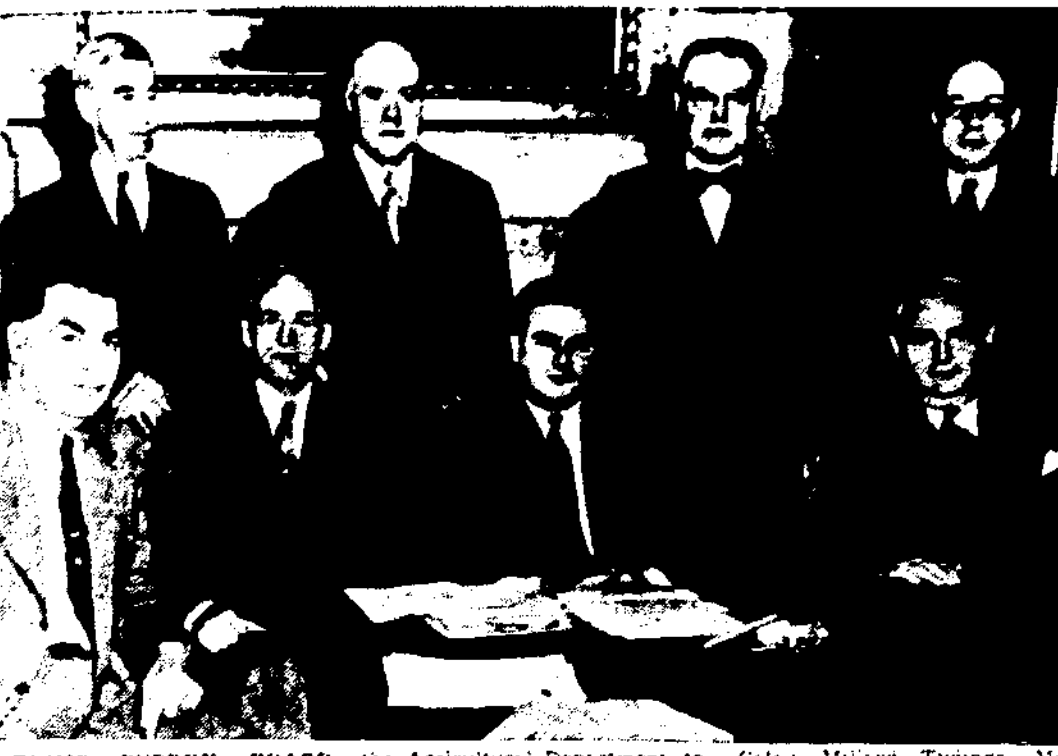

In Holyoke, Mass., 1,100 workers went back to the Worthington Pump and Machinery Co. after a nine-day strike.

committee reached the stage today where Democrats and Republicans on the committee were holding "politics" at each other in interviews with reporters. What's more, they added that politics is threatening the value of the whole inquiry.

The committee met today to try and smooth out its later differences over procedure.

The White House said today that President Truman had ordered that the joint congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor must be supplied with any information it desires.

His memorandum, to federal department and agency heads, as well as to the joint chiefs of staff, authorized all employees under them to give the committee "any information of which they may have knowledge."

Applies to All

"This directive," the President said, "is applicable to all persons in your departments or agencies whether they are in the armed services or not and whether or not they are called to testify before the joint committee."

And the senate met today with three important things in mind:

1. It will resume its debate on the government's reorganization bill, which would give the President a certain amount of authority to streamline federal agencies.
2. It expects to approve several changes in the G. I. bill of rights, making it easier for veterans to get loans and educational benefits.
3. The changes would go into effect, however, until after the house and senate get together on their exact form.

Other Problems

Here are some of the home-front matters before congress today:

Auto prices—Several hundred auto dealers came to town to present to the house small business committee their case of a dispute with the OPA over how much profit they'll make on new cars.

Labor—The house rules committee met to act on an anti-strike bill already approved by the house military committee. Rules committee approval is needed before the bill can be debated by the house.

Jobs—The house expenditures committee met to begin writing a compromise version of the "full employment bill." The committee ended its hearings yesterday.

The meeting was in charge of Dean Dullman of Knox county, chairman for the 5th district. It was held for the purpose of planning the 1946 conservation program.

Principal speakers were Elmer F. Kruse, chairman of the production and marketing division of the district and also state chairman of the AAA, and Mr. Flanagan, assistant director of the production and marketing division.

Election of township representatives to serve as committeemen in deciding on the distribution of funds for soil conservation will be held in each county between Nov. 26 and Dec. 7. County committeemen will then be elected on Dec. 8 at a special meeting.

Another meeting is being planned for next week to discuss further details.

DRINKING BY GIRLS UP

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—While commending the Loyal Temperance league in its "outstanding project," Miss Mary B. Ervin, president of the Ohio woman's Christian Temperance union, asserted "drunkenness among young girls has climbed 100 per cent since Pearl Harbor." Miss Ervin spoke before the 72nd state WCTU convention here last night.

Their trip was in vain, however, as the count had not been completed.

Walkout of the various schools this morning were orderly, and nothing was said to the school heads as to what the plans were. Prior to the walkout, the principals, sensing the coming demonstration, emphasized in talks over the public address system, the futility of such measures, suggesting instead an organized appeal to the state legislature for a change in the present law which makes it necessary to have a 65 per cent majority to carry the issue. At Harding High school the pupils attended the regular assembly for the football team this morning and there was no reference to the coming walkout or demonstration.

Police Report Damage

Police reported at noon that in some cases the pupils became too exuberant and caused damage. It was reported at the police station that an automobile owned by E. F. Malloy of Canton, was damaged when the pupils congregated on South Main street, just off Center street. The paint was badly scratched on one side when a number of pupils climbed over the machine, apparently to get a better view of the proceedings. The car was parked along the curb.

Police also reported that a good many complaints had been telephoned the station and that others had been given publicity as signed to watch the demonstration. Captain E. C. Macken said the demonstrators created a serious traffic problem. After the assembly at the courthouse the police were able to break up the crowd into small groups which continued to mill about the business district, apparently without direction, for some time.

However, police efforts and juvenile appetites combined to further disperse the crowds by lunch time.

During the impromptu parade last night a number of pupils were challenging pedestrians with "How did you vote?"

Today for the most part the demonstration was fairly orderly although one group was ejected from a downtown store when they became loud.

Shortly before 10:30 a. m. a group of eight or 10 boys called at the election board headquarters where the official count on the bond vote was being made.

Letter Says 'We'll Not Stand Idly By'

Today this letter, bearing no signature excepting "A Harding Student," was delivered to the editor of The Star, to whom it was addressed:

"We do not wish today's walkout at Harding High school to be construed by any one as a discredit to the capable and loyal teaching staff at that school.

"Nor, did we intend this demonstration as a threat to the general public. It was designed, rather, as a proof—a proof to the voters of Marion that we will not stand idly by while our futures and the futures of others to follow us are jeopardized and mishandled. We, if no one else, are interested in the Marion of tomorrow—the Marion in which we want to enjoy living.

"We want nothing unreasonable. All we ask is the right to have a few of the things that people of other cities take for granted."

Decry Politics in War Inquiry

Both Parties in Pearl Harbor Probe Hurl Charges. See Injury to Quiz.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Republicans and Democrats on the Pearl Harbor investigating committee contended today politics is interfering with the impartiality of the whole inquiry.

"They have given us a political trial," Senator George H. Dyer said of the Republican majority on the committee and "I doubt the committee can accomplish very much."

Senator Brewster (R-Me.) terming the Democrats' stand "very unfortunate," added "if there ever was a committee that should be free of partisanship, it is here."

Brewster's contention was that otherwise the public would lose confidence in the ultimate findings.

There are five senators and five representatives on the committee assigned to get the whole story of the Pearl Harbor attack.

The inter-party wrangling has been centered on a charge for a successful demand by Republicans that members be allowed to dig for facts individually as well as in group style.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) has said he never would vote to give Republicans authority to go as individuals into files of the late President Roosevelt.

Lucas said a group of reporters last night that the investigation was conceived in Republican politics, born in Republican politics and will die in Republican politics.

Private Snoopers

Lucas said Republicans on the committee want to be "private snoopers" rather than impartial investigators.

Brewster carried on his campaign with the slogan: "What's good enough for Truman is good enough for me."

He referred to procedures of the senate war investigating committee when it was under the chairmanship of the then Senator Truman. It allowed individual investigations and, said Brewster, "as a result of this freedom that was always accorded by the chairman."

Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif.), a house member of the committee, expressed hope to newsmen that today's meeting would settle the question of individual investigation.

NEW DISARMMENT RULE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—Attorneys who have been disbarred or indefinitely suspended from practice in Ohio now must have the assent of the state supreme court before being readmitted to the bar. The high tribunal yesterday amended its rules to require the lower court which reinstates the attorney to certify its action to the supreme court clerk. The supreme court must then agree to the reinstatement.

BRITISH FIGHT OFF JAPANESE ATTACK

BATAVIA, Nov. 8.—A group of 1,000 Indonesians was taken off by British Indian troops today from near Batavia, where they had been fighting off Japanese attacks.

Almost simultaneously, British forces threw back another attack on the Tjilatjap airfield on the southeast outskirts of the capital, scattering a band of 100 Nationalists after a pitched battle which lasted nearly an hour.

The British colonel who led troops beat back the first attack aimed at a camp for released Allied internees and war prisoners, said that for the first time the Indonesians appeared to be fighting under organized leadership.

The Indonesians left 14 dead in the battle at the internee camp.

FRENCH POW'S LEAVE FARMS

Two Million Aim at Secure
Spots in Government Service.

By The United Press
PARIS—A concerted move by two million French returned war prisoners to leave farms and seek security in government jobs is waiting the French government's sanction, according to the Minister of Veterans and War Deportees.
Monsieur Henri Frenay outlined the reasons for this move in the weekly bulletin of the French government. He said that many of France's young men are demoralized. How they would take to a new life in their own country has been a question of passionate interest to France.
"Five years of captivity has made many prisoners extremely security conscious," Mr. Frenay said. "Since their return we observe a disposition of the rural areas and overwhelming requests for government jobs. In many instances this is because the prisoners are disillusioned with farm life. Their stock, they find, was removed by the Germans and their properties are in general much run down."
The health of the war prisoners, as distinct from the political deportees who went to concentration camps, is as good as that of the civilian population in France, according to the minister. It is the disruption of their family life which has presented the gravest problems. Their divorce rate has shot up.

Recent Wife Freedom
Many prisoners do not like the new found independence of their wives, who during their absence learned how to give orders and run things. There were not unexpectedly many cases of infidelity during the five years of absence.
Of some 230,000 political deportees—men and women who were taken to Germany because of their underground activities—only about 44,000 have come back. Thirty per cent of these are tubercular, and many others will never again enjoy real health.

The government is now turning to the difficult task of trying to trace some 300,000 Frenchmen who never came home from Germany. Teams are being organized to travel all through France and Germany in an effort to find out what happened to them.

"It will take years, but we must have some sort of evidence as to their fate," Mr. Frenay said. "Their families are in an impossible legal position, because we cannot remarry nor can inheritances be received until there is a death certificate."

Of the 300,000 missing Frenchmen, 200,000 were political deportees who are believed dead. Another 20,000 men are thought to have died in prisoner of war camps. An unknown number of deported workers and Alsians who were made to join the Wehrmacht are believed to have perished. About 10,000 Frenchmen do not wish to return from Germany. They took the place of the head of the family when he went to the front and died, and they are well content. There are a few Alsians still in the Russian zone of Germany but they are trickling back.

"The return of the prisoners is completed and our ministry will be abolished in the near future," Mr. Frenay said.

STUDY GROUP MEETS
The first meeting of the Mother's Study Group of Edison Junior High school was held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Irvyn Myers of 678 Florence street. In the business session the regular meeting date was set as the first Monday of each month. Mrs. Merwyn Harruff was appointed chairman of the group and Mrs. Cecil Noble was appointed secretary. Topics for group discussion were led by Mrs. Harruff and Mrs. Albert Pace. Mrs. Myers, assisted by Mrs. Noble, served refreshments. A Christmas gift exchange was planned for the next meeting Dec. 3 at the home of Mrs. Closs Musgrave of 637 York street.

On No. 1080, Tasty to Rats, End Dread Bubonic Plague

BRISON HUMPHRIES
Science Writer

Nov. 6—The bubonic plague, transmitted to man by the fleas that infest rats, is estimated to have killed more humans than all the wars in history.

A form of the plague has been found in several different types of rodents in the western states, including ground squirrels, woodrats, deer mice and woodchucks. The 1080 is deadly to all of these and is equally effective in a wide variety of baits and in water.

Other rat-borne diseases exist, but none are as deadly as bubonic plague. Other diseases include typhus fever, spirochetal jaundice, rat-bite fever, rabies and tularemia. In addition, rats infect other animals with diseases common to the minkable to man and are believed responsible for many livestock disease fatalities.

Property damage caused by rats in the United States alone is estimated by officials of the U. S. fish and wildlife service at more than $200,000,000 a year.

Rats attack packaged food in storehouses, spoiling much more than they actually eat. They gnaw and ruin fabrics and upholstery in dry goods and furniture stores. On farms they kill lambs, pigs and chickens, eat their way into flour and grain bags and spill or foul the contents.

The fish and wildlife service estimates that there are nearly as many rats in the United States as there are persons. On farms there are about 60,000,000 rats. They cause property loss estimated at $1 a year for each rat.

With the outbreak of the war, supplies of the customary poisons used in rodent control—thallium, red squill and strychnine—were curtailed or cut off. Thallium was imported from Europe, principally Germany, Belgium and France.

red squill from the Mediterranean region and strychnine from the far east.

It was for this reason that the government, with the Office of Scientific Research and Development and the U. S. fish and wildlife service cooperating, began its search for a new domestic rat poison which resulted in the development of 1080.

STUFFED CRANBERRY PEARS . . . For salad or dessert

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

There's a good crop of cranberries coming up this year. Sixty-six million pounds, or almost twice as much as last year, is the estimate of the cranberry growers. It is a good news for those of us who love that truly American fruit. It'll mean, for one thing, the proper sauce to go with those turkeys we'll also be able to get. Cranberries can be used most effectively for desserts and dessert-salads. Here are a few ways.

Stuffed Cranberry Pears

Pare medium sized pears; halve them lengthwise and core. Do not remove stems. Boil together in 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup corn syrup and 1/2 cup water. Add pear halves and cook gently for five minutes. Remove pears from syrup and chill. When ready to serve, fill centers with the following sauce.

4 cups fresh cranberries, 1 whole egg, quartered and seeded, 1 small paper, quartered and seeded, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup corn syrup (dark or light).

Put cranberries, orange and apple through the food chopper. Add sugar and corn syrup and mix well. Chill in refrigerator for a few hours before serving. This makes a quart and a half.

Note: A cup of maple syrup or a half cup of honey may be substituted for the corn syrup.

Cranberry Sunshine Relish

2 cups fresh cranberries, 1 lemon, quartered and seeded, 1 apple, peeled and quartered and cored, 1 cup orange marmalade, 2 teaspoons horseradish, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water.

Put cranberries, lemon and apple through food chopper. Combine with marmalade and horseradish; let stand a few hours to blend. Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over steam. Add to cranberry relish mixture. Fill individual molds or fill shallow square pan to a depth of one inch. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with lettuce or watercress as a salad. Or cut into squares; place one each on round of thinly sliced orange, and arrange as a garnish around a serving platter.

Cranberry Ginger Sauce

1 cup corn syrup (dark or light), 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cups water, root ginger, 4 cups fresh cranberries, 2 apples, peeled, cored and diced, grated and 1 lemon.

Boil corn syrup, sugar, water and a small piece of ginger root together five minutes. Remove ginger. Add cranberries and apples and cook slowly, without stirring, until cranberry skins pop open (about ten minutes). Cool just before serving, sprinkle with grated lemon peel.

Cranberry Ginger Sauce is good over baked custard—serve to the blind boy. It's also wonderful with hot cornbread. And just try it sometime on waffles—with the sauce hot too. And last of all, fill a baked cookie-crumble pie with it with prepared vanilla pudding and serve topped with Cranberry Ginger Sauce—the whole very cold. Good, good, good!

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

ON A TROOP TRANSPORT

Editor of The Star: Sunday morning arrived with a bright, blue sky, a warmth of friendly sunlight, and a calmness which seemed to penetrate to the depths of the earth. Nature seemed to be doing her utmost to be helpful. The congregation was gathered for the morning worship, and what a strange congregation it was! Everyone was dressed alike, in dark blue. The men settled into groups on the black canvas of the hatch covers and talked quietly. Many seemed lost in thoughts of far away. Then the sound of music came from the chaplain's organ. There was a rustle of pages, and then the voices blended in the melody of a hymn. The singing was not loud. One felt more than heard it, as the notes of sound were carried away by the strong breeze, that was making the flag flap vigorously on the mast high above. The choir was silent, a spoken word, and the peals of the organ.

It was just like any other church service. With no, not exactly, but was a service in mid-ocean. That made no difference. No other congregation was ever more serious, attentive, and seeking. Many looked as if it were a new experience for them; other eyes moist, could remember their home churches. A few seemed to be trying to remember where last they attended—their eyes looked startled, no, certainly it could not have been that long!

No church was ever more beautiful than our church that morning, for had not God built this ship Himself, created the sky for the dome, the sea for its carpet, was it not God's own cathedral with its windows of painted sunlight?

The chaplain delivered his sermon; he spoke about anchors—the four anchors of the ship, two above and two spare; and about the anchors a man needs on the sea of life: the anchor of courage, the anchor of Bible study, of prayer, which give any man assurance as he faces the unknown.

As the service came to a close we realized that our cause is not to conquer, not to be victorious alone, but to do the will of Almighty. And so we crossed into Lord, and in the power of His might. And as we crossed into the unknown with every confidence, hope and peace, for as the Scriptures read, "Thou wilt keep me in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee." And to you—my neighbors, friends and relatives—I say "reach up as far as you can and God will reach down all the rest of the way."

Youngstown's Steel Business Suffers from Labor Headache

(This is another in the series of articles prepared especially for The Associated Press by writers on member newspapers to show the progress made in reconverting Ohio from war to peace, and the problems which have arisen in the process.)

By GEO. K. REISS
Of The Youngstown Vindicator
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 2.—Industrial Youngstown, heart of "The Ruhr of America," has a magnificent postwar headache, and it wasn't caused by reconversion, either.

It's chiefly labor troubles in other industries which the steel industry supplies. The steel industry already has taken a few pretty good belly punches from those other industries' labor battles—and now, feeling a little, it's about to take a few labor punches of its own.

Reconversion in Youngstown, Ohio's third largest industrial area, was comparatively small and simple in comparison with reconversion in other major Ohio industrial cities. In fact, that problem is nearly all washed up already.

Reconversion Simple Reasons?
1. The Youngstown district is an important steel making center, the nation's fourth steel district.
2. The Youngstown area got comparatively few of Ohio's new war plants. It didn't rise so far nor so fast as other major industrial centers; consequently, it won't fall so far nor so fast.

Steel's the area's major job. It makes nearly 11 per cent of the nation's total steel output, more tons of ingots per capita or per square mile of area than any other major steel district. Its five big steel concerns employ about 45,000 workers. They are Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Republic Steel Corp., Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., Sharon Steel Corp. and Copperweld Steel Co. Besides, another 25,000 or 30,000 in the area work in fabricating plants—the plants that lean directly on steel, other thousands work in the stores or on railroads depending directly on steel.

Reconversion of steel from war to peace is simple and easy. That's because steel for war differs little from steel for peace—perhaps just a little different formula, but essentially the same.

Just Change Formula
The war's over and there's no more need for steel for shells, guns, tanks, and ships. Well! The steel plant metallurgists simply change the formula of the material going into the open hearth furnaces and out comes steel for peacetime goods; steel for autos, railroad cars and locomotives, bridges, steel buildings, washers, refrigerators and innumerable other items.

Youngstown steel plants shut down for the two-day holiday following the Jap surrender, as did other industrial plants throughout the country. But they were back in operation making steel for peace goods, before the surrender week was over.

Currently, the steel plants are short from 2,000 to 3,000 workers—able-bodied male workers—and the shortage will get worse as operations here improve.

Most steel fabricators switched from peace to war work, most are switching back now; and a few have hard sledding in winding up the red tape, in getting back into their peacetime jobs. Part of the problem has been a shortage of steel, slowness of reconverting other plants. And they're hampered, too, by manpower shortages.

Fabricators here included General Fireproofing Co., maker of aluminum and steel office furniture, which turned to aircraft assemblies during the war and is going back to furniture; Truscon Steel Co., building products maker which made aircraft, tank parts, landing barges, ships, and other items; Commercial Shearing & Stamping Co., which made ship parts, Bailey bridges, air bombs and other items; Mackenzie Muffler Co., auto muffler maker, which made dropable fuel tanks; Youngstown Metal Products Co., which made airplane landing mats, aircraft engine mounts, steel shell stampings and other items; Youngstown Steel Door Co., which makes railroad car doors but also produced dropable fuel tanks

M'ARTHUR VIEWS ON MERGER PLAN AIRED

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Sen. Douglas MacArthur, who pressed his belief in the need for a joint Army-Navy committee to study the merger of the two services, today said that the plan should be put into effect as soon as possible.

The general's suggestion is the subject of a transcript given by the joint chiefs of staff special committee. This group, which included top Army and Navy leaders on a proposal to set up a single department of national defense.

The transcript, made public by the senate military committee, which is considering Army-Navy merger plans, quoted MacArthur as saying at Leyte in the Philippines Dec. 3, 1944:

"I believe that the professional heads of the services should be ex-officio members of the cabinet. They should be present at all cabinet meetings without power of voting, but permitted to express their opinion, and above all else, to hear the cabinet as they discuss not only external affairs of the United States but internal problems."

Brig. Gen. F. Truette Davidson, member of the Army-Navy staff committee, was quoted as telling MacArthur his suggestion was not possible "in the cabinet today, the way the government is set up."

MacArthur added:

Harding Invades Sandusky Gridiron Tomorrow Night

Foe's Record Looks Good to Prexies; Petrich Studies Greater Use of Passing Attack.

The situation facing Harding this week is one of not too much an appearance. In the first place they are meeting one of the toughest teams in the state when they travel to Sandusky Friday night. The Vikings are at present sporting a pretty fair record. One fact which may serve to stack the chips against the Prexies is that Sandusky defeated Mansfield early in the season by a 15-0 score. The Prexies were dealt a 27-0 beating by Mansfield in their first game of the year. However, Sandusky recently edged Ashland 6-0 in a game which was reported to have been one of the A's best played games of the season. Two weeks ago Harding came out on top in their struggle with Ashland 14-12. From all reports, Sandusky has a very strong outfit, and Harding probably will be faced with their strongest opposition of the year.

The injury picture continues to make things gloomy for the Prexies. Jerry Richie, the nearest addition to the sick list. He has been feeling a little under the weather and has not been able to practice this week. This may leave an empty fullback spot which Coach Petrich will possibly try to fill with Jim Coss.

Petrich says he may attempt to use more pass plays in Friday night's battle. He has been switching the lineup around to fit in with these plays.

Game time at Sandusky Friday will be 8 p. m.

TAKES UP REINS OF CARDS. Eddie Dyer (above), former minor league executive for the St. Louis Cardinals, has been signed to succeed Billy Southworth as manager of the Cards. Southworth will manage the Boston Braves next season.

suddenly. The best guess now is that Leahy is about to be "separated." Bunny Davis, now weighing 180 instead of his fighting weight of 146, is retiring from the ring and plans to campaign a couple of race horses. Bunny apparently figures it's easier to train the nags than himself.

Cleaning the Cuff. Southern Association umpires likely will breathe easier now that Fresno Thompson has been called in from New Orleans to do "field work" for the Dodgers. One of Fresno's best stunts was to argue until an ump pulled the rule book from his hip pocket, then Thompson would exclaim: "What do you know? A rule book printed in Braille."

Until just before the war broke out in Europe, the United States was dependent on outside sources for up-to-date paper, then made from linen rags.

CENSOR WIDDOWES AND SCRIBES CONFER ON MISUNDERSTANDINGS

Parley Follows Ban on Interviews After Sarringhaus Fracas.

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—Censor-Council Carroll Widdowes of Ohio State football team meets today with sports writers to discuss the Buckeye coach's new policy of informing the public on the doings of his graders.

Widdowes said he called the meeting to straighten out what he called "misunderstandings" resulting from the censorship policy he invoked in the wake of publicity that attended half-back Paul Sarringhaus' resignation and readjustment with the squad.

The Buck coach's censorship ruling prohibited sports writers from visiting locker rooms and banned his players from talking to newsmen, but it didn't prevent the writer from watching practice sessions. And from what they saw yesterday, it looked like the Buck-Pitt game at Pittsburgh Saturday would be an offensive battle.

Widdowes indicated the thought Coach Clark Shaughnessy's Panthers would have plenty in the way of scoring strength and said he wanted his graders to be just as strong in that department. The Pittsburgh game is expected to be a breather for the Bucks, providing them with plenty of rest for ensuing Western conference games against such tough foes as Illinois and Michigan.

UNKNOWN AMATEUR NABS TOURNEY LEAD

By The Associated Press.
PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 8.—Round Fred Crookston, tournament manager for the Professional Golfers association, wore a broad smile today. It was a smile fostered by an unheralded 24-year-old amateur from Memphis, Tenn., who was in the driver's seat as the final 36 holes of the $5,000 North and South Open tournament began.

Scoring a dazzling 89 in which he needed only 11 putts on each nine, Lt. Cary Middlecott, Army dentist and a recent eye patient at Valley Forge, Pa., hospital, brought his 36-hole total yesterday to 139 in the 44th annual Carolina classic to lead the field by a stroke.

The erstwhile leaders, Denny Shute of Akron, O., and Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., although dropping off eight strokes from their initial 68s to 74s yesterday, were hot on Middlecott's trail, only a stroke behind, with the real pressure turned on today.

Forty-three players remained of the 120 who began the second round yesterday. Top score to qualify for the final play was 150.

Edison Defeats Vernon 26-7 As Junior High Season Ends

By BILL COULTER.
Thomas A. Edison brought down the curtain on the junior high grid league for the season yesterday at Harding stadium with a 26-7 romp over Vernon. The Edison lads wound up the season without a defeat, and will wear the crown for the 1945 season. Edison scored in every period but the third but made up for that by hitting the winning column twice in the final frame. Vernon made their lone tally in the fourth quarter on a 60-yard touchdown jaunt by Dick Umbaugh.

Edison racked up their first tally late in the opening period when Don Bryan went over from about twenty yards out, and they added their conversion by running the ball over. Pete Browning denied the Vernon line and plunged his way over in the second period for Edison's second tally of the afternoon. This time the attempt for conversion failed and Edison led at the half, 13-0.

The third quarter saw Edison drive into Vernon's territory but fail to score until the final period when Don Bryan again scamped across the goal line. The attempt for the extra point again failed. There was plenty of action packed into the last few minutes. Vernon proved that they were still in there trying when Dick Umbaugh took the ball on his own 40 and traveled the rest of the way to score. Vernon followed through by adding the conversion and they trailed 19-7. Edison bounced right back and in a few

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

SUDDENLY there was borne in upon me the conviction that I could tell China, former princess of Transylvania, what I really had meant by my expression, playing her cards correctly.

Of course what I had had in mind was that she should be leant out of Mary's love, as George once had said to her. George, ever the gentleman, not only at her feeling for him, but at her other thoughts and emotions. I had heard George explain in explanation that he wished he knew what made Mary tick, but I was afraid that he was too deeply acquainted with China's thoughts and emotional reactions.

So Different from Mary

I knew something else clearly, in the light of her confidence that George loved her. He must have loved her, without ever putting the thought into words—he is too smart to make that error. That he loved her because she was so different from Mary; that she possessed qualities lacking in Mary, which he especially valued. I really did not mean anything.

No Right

"Forget me!" she pleaded. "I had no right to say that about you and Uncle Lucky."

"Please don't think of it again," I urged. "Tell me, instead, if there is anything I can do to help you."

"You already have helped me more than I can tell you," she said. "More than I can ever repay. And I think I know what was in the back of your mind about playing my cards correctly."

I was suddenly alert, wary, for she was putting emphasis and significance into her words.

"You must possess clairvoyant powers then," I said, "for I am not conscious of having any hidden thoughts in the back of my mind."

"Probably not," she said crisply. "But I wouldn't be afraid to wager a good deal that they are subconsciously there."

A Deep Breath

She paused, then drew a deep breath—I wondered if it were to bolster up her courage and went on.

"What you really mean, consciously, or subconsciously," she said slowly, "is that I ought to pattern myself after Mary, make myself as nearly like her as possible, and so insure that I keep George's love."

I tried to keep down my dismay, for I had meant something very like what she had said. But her manner of putting it made the proposal a repellent thing; gave it more significance than I had meant, and I voiced a hasty disclaimer.

"I meant nothing of the kind, China," I said, conscious that again I was flying like a gentleman.

"Then, after a slight pause, I made a plausible comment: 'Surely you know that you have beauty, brains and soul sufficient to keep George loyal and interested the rest of his life.' 'But you see I do count very much on George's loyalty.'"

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Old Folks

Physicians, psychologists, and welfare workers of all sorts are paying more and more attention to the problems of older people. This is happening for several reasons. First, there is an increase in the proportion of older people in the population. It has been estimated that there are about 9,000,000 people over 65 in the United States, and that by 1980 this will be increased to 26,000,000.

This growth in the proportion of older folk has been achieved by an increase in the span of life, changes in the birth rate, and a decrease in the number of young people entering the country through immigration. Second, there has been an increasing desire to meet the problems of the aged.

According to Doctor S. R. Laycock of Canada, much attention should be given to mental hygiene or mental care of the aged. These needs are much the same for older people as for younger ones.

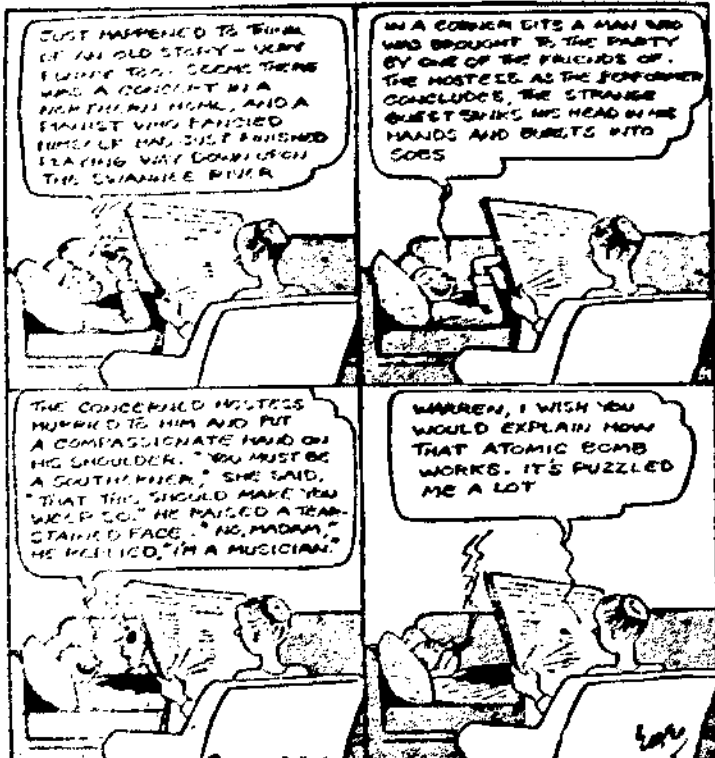

First, they require affection. They desire to be members of a group and not to be left alone. They also want to be independent, and to make their own decisions. They want to do things, to create things, to find success, and to have what they do, receive the approval of others.

Many of the difficulties of older people are caused by emotional problems. Many of those with whom older people have lived may have passed on, or the older person may be living in a place where he is separated from his former friends. Just as young children will go to great lengths in attempts to receive attention, older people may be driven to making a nuisance of themselves just to have someone notice them. These actions and a desire for attention may make it very difficult for the people with whom they live, but, of course, with careful study, the cause can easily be found and eliminated.

The loss of independence is one of the most serious losses of the aged. Many older persons suffer this loss of independence because of the overconcern of their children and, as a result, they may be kept from doing many of the things which they wish to do. Young persons are apt to forget that they, themselves, do many foolish things, such as staying out later than they should, or eating or drinking the wrong things or more than is good for them. But the elderly are often made prisoners of kindness and are restricted too greatly. Those responsible for US marched 117 of the senior and indigent of our men to the Karenko railroad station that April 2, 1943, and put us in ancient coaches on seats. The narrow-gauge train crawled out at 8:30 a. m. but by 4 o'clock had gone west. We carried along our lunch of a cup of coffee on the train.

We were put off at a Jap military camp near the Tamazato, which lies south of Karenko. The establishment was set in a rather beautiful piece of the foot of a steep and verdant mountain. A stream running along the camp.

Carry Furniture on Backs
We carried our gear to the one-story barracks in a similar to the one at Karenko, then were marched back to the train and unloaded a car of chairs, benches and other furniture for the barracks was piled on our backs and we carried it camp. Some of the goats we were raising at Karenko were led to the new camp.

Some of us, including myself, were given four small new roommates. Gen. Hein terPorch, of the Netherlands. Those who did not have rooms were badly crowded into large squad rooms about as bad as Karenko.

Things stopped now, giving a chance to lick our wounds. But the food remained scarce and hot water with vegetable tops for every man.

Finally Get Supplies
On April 12, in answer to our pleas, part of the South Red Cross stores was sent to Karenko. We had just abandoned hope that we ever see them again. But, warning, here they were—radio- and shoes that were snatched from us at Karenko and which we thought we never see again.

We carried two unending days of gear for the Japs to disburse, and I guess we prayed that we would be tricked again.

On April 14 the Japs began to move the remains of the

...in effect, that we were well and were being cared for decently.

Answers Dictated
We told him this because we had been briefed the previous day by the new camp's commander and had been told exactly what he could and could not say. It was a case, mostly, of what we could not say. The Jap Red Cross representative's visit, therefore, went for nothing. He chose not to look at us, standing there in front of him like slightly mobile skeletons, but just accepted our optimistic-sounding reports and left.

He was followed in time by other Jap agents of the International Red Cross and on these occasions the Japs, taking no chances, forced us to read our reports from carefully edited written declarations. We could say nothing about the food, which was as terrible as at Karenko, nor could we mention our living and sanitary conditions.

Gets 6 Out of 300 Letters
We were permitted, however, to appeal to these men to assist in delivering mail to us. I knew my wife must be writing to me, care of the International Red Cross (I found out later that during my captivity Mrs. Wainwright wrote me more than 300 letters, of which I eventually received six), and the others who joined in the appeal felt the same way.

Our new Jap masters naturally refused to permit us to say anything about the Red Cross men about the monstrous treatment at Karenko. We thought of blurt out the truth to these men, in the forlorn hope that the truth would touch even a Jap's heart. But there was no hope of this. Our meetings were held while we were flanked by armed, ready Jap sentries. If we had departed so much as a word from the prepared script I am certain that our treatment thereafter would have been considerably worse.

Tell Truth Surreptitiously
By careful wording we could occasionally convey the truth of our conditions in such letters as we were permitted to write—letters which were duly collected and burned in apparently many cases by Jap censors. My reference to my weight, as of my graduation from West Point, actually got through, however. So did a letter written by one of our officers telling his wife:

"I cannot mention my treatment. I cannot mention very much about conditions. I cannot mention the sanitary arrangements in the camp. The food is also unmentionable."

The stupid Jap who inspected this letter noted contentedly that it contained, in more or less the same language, the instructions all of us had. He passed it and it got through to America.

As for my own mail, I was first permitted to write to my wife in October, 1942. My second letter was approved in March, 1943, and my third in June of the same year—at Tamazato. I had received no word from my wife up to this time, but had had two messages from others.

Hears from Old Friend
One of these was a Christmas cable from my old friend, Gen. F. S. Foltz, retired and living in Washington. I had been Gen. Foltz's adjutant when he was colonel of, and I was a captain in the First Cavalry before World War I. I still do not know how it got through when so many other messages were stopped. I received it in January, 1943.

A month later I received a heavily censored letter from the widow of an officer I had buried on Corregidor. The widow was living in Manila. It was the first letter I had received for a year.

There are many forms of torture, but isolation of this kind is

ALBERT SPEER
Associated Press Newswriter
Thirty-nine-year-old Professor Albert Speer was the architect Hitler picked in 1937 to rebuild Berlin as a fitting monument to the Nazi era, but Speer's job as boss of munitions and armament output was taking up all his time by 1942. The Swedish press once reported that Speer, with Goebbels, Doenitz and Himmler, wielded power in Germany second only to Hitler's and the High Command's. He was director of the military labor tool known as Todt organization, and pushed the German production machine as hard as a man could, but admitted May 3, 1945, that Germany was defeated. The Czechs added his name to the war criminal list.

not the least of these varied cruelties.

After our arrival at Tamazato we were permitted to write once a month, and occasionally could fill in the x-marks or missing words on printed cards relating to our condition. On one of these that got through to Mrs. Wainwright there was a line which read:

"I am occupying myself—"

I wrote in "working with farm animals," meaning that I was back at the old job of herding goats.

Punishment Modified
No case of a man being struck by a Jap came to my attention at Tamazato, but many of us were made to stand at rigid attention for as long as two hours, for such minor infractions of the rules as going in the wrong door of the latrine, walking too close to the barbed wire fence, lying down on our bunks from exhaustion before bedtime, or failing to salute or bow to a Jap soldier. Occasionally the Japs would hide from us, then jump out from under cover after we passed and charge us with refusing to salute or bow.

Though it was cloaked in the form of a gruff order, we received wonderfully stirring news at Tamazato in the late Spring of 1943. We were ordered out one day and told that we would have an air raid drill!

It was our first unexpurgated news that United States forces, land, sea and air, were approaching us. I have never been prouder of being an American than I was on that day.

(TOMORROW: Wainwright is moved on to other camps, and sees one which moves him to tears of pity for his men.)

To Colonel Baggypan: NEW LIONS CLUB AT PROSPECT ORGANIZED

HAL BOYLE
Feature Writer

Hal Boyle

Let's go with a roundhouse right fist that sank up to his elbow in the bag. He moved in closer and pumped left and right fists into the unoffending bag until one blow shot it off the table onto the floor.

Then, as his hilarious audience whooped in delight, the future lieutenant kicked the bag from one end of the room to the other until he was out of breath and had to quit for another drink.

"And that's only the first installment of what you got coming to you, Baggypan," he said, glancing at the wilted bag.

"You won't do it, though," laughed the major. "Guys talked like that in the last war. Privates were always going to beat up their sergeants and lieutenants were going to smash their captains to pieces, but it didn't happen. You'll probably be slapping that colonel on the back and buying him a drink at the first veterans' reunion."

"Like hell I will," said the lieutenant, stormily.

"What did he do to you—pass you up for promotion?" asked another officer.

"He didn't do anything to me," the lieutenant answered. "It was what he did to my men."

Here's One Example

"There was one little guy from an eastern city who was one of my hardest workers. Never complained. When the Army ruling came out that we could start releasing fellows over 38 years old he came up to me and asked if I would help him get out. I am 44 years old and have two children, he told me. I have a small business and my mother and father have been running it for me. But they are very old and both are ill now and I am afraid I will lose my store unless I get out. There is nobody else to run it."

"He had letters from the Red Cross that proved both his parents were in bad health—not that I hadn't believed him. I sent him to see the colonel with a strong recommendation he be released."

The lieutenant's eyes clouded with anger.

"But that dirty skunk had come in with one of his hangers-on that morning, and wanted to take it out on somebody. You're just another slacker!" he yelled at my private, and told him, "I'm going to send you back to Guadalcanal." And he did. That little private had tears in his eyes when he left. He had lost all hope and there was nothing I could do.

"That's just one case. He ruined five of my best men with cheap chiseling tricks like that. That's why I'm going to beat hell out of him."

As they left the room shortly afterward, the captain asked the major, "Do you think he really will do it?"

"Naw," said the major. "They never get around to it. But if he wants to hire somebody to do it for him, I will chip in ten bucks—and furnish bail if there's any kickback."
